The Numb. 1107.

The Daily Courant.

Wedneſday, October 31. 1705.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Oct. 31.

Madrid, Oct. 14.

Letters of the 6th Inſtant from Saragoſa adviſe, that the Rebels had not attack'd Fraga as was reported, but had only made ſome Excurſions in the Neighbourhood. The King's Troops that are arriv'd on the Frontiers of Catalonia, have freed ſeveral Places that had been oblig'd to yield to Force, and which have return'd to their Obedience to his Catholick Majeſty. There are 200 Rebels in Garriſon at Lerida, ſome of which are in the Caſtle of Garden, and others in the Cittadel, but they are all Militia; the Enemy having refus'd to ſend them any Regular Troops. Since Don Joſeph de Salazar arriv'd at Fraga with Part of the Horſe he commands, the Count de Sant Iſtevan de Gormaz advancing to Lerida with 400 Horſe and ſome Foot, caus'd the Rebels that are in the Caſtle of Garden to be ſummon'd to ſurrender, but they refus'd. Whereupon the Count caus'd the Country about that Place to be laid waſte; ſome Troops ſallied out of the City to oppoſe that Ravage, but were repuls'd with Loſs. Don Luis de Zuniga, Major General, having advanc'd to Denia, ruin'd the Mills about it, to deprive the Rebels that are in that Place of the means of ſubſiſting. Thoſe that were in Altea, being reduc'd to a very ſmall Number, ſurrendred themſelves Priſoners of War, in Number 22, the reſt having made their Eſcape. The Artillery and Ammunition order'd from Pampeluna, was daily expected, for attacking the Rebels, beginning with Lerida. The laſt Advices from Barcelona were of the 4th of this Month, and imported that that Day the Beſieged defended themſelves with great Vigour, and had made ſeveral Sallies to the conſiderable Loſs of the Enemy, and that they had Plenty of Proviſions and Ammunition.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 3.

A Liſt of the Troops which were in Garriſon in Barcelona, when the Allies attack'd that City, after the taking of Fort Montjouy.

Don Franciſco de Velaſco Son of the late Conſtable of Caſtille, Viceroy and Captain General of Catalonia. The Duke de Popoli with the Company of 40 young Neapolitan Gentlemen which he had newly rais'd to ſerve as Life-Guards to King Philip V. The Marquis de Risburg a Fleming, Lieutenant-General. The Marquis d' Aytona, General of the Horſe, commanding a Week in his Turn as Lieutenant General. Don Manuel de Toledo, Brother of the Duke of Alva General of the Artillery, commanding likewiſe a Week in his Turn as Lieutenant-General. The Count de Roſa, Governour of Barcelona and Lieutenant-General, on the Part of France. Don Dominico Recco.

Foot.

An old Spaniſh Regiment of Toledo, whoſe Colonel is Don Melchior, conſiſting of 600 Men. A Neapolitan Regiment, under their Colonel Don Lewis Caetano, who having 6 Companies in Roſes, had only in Barcelona 300 Men. A Neopolitan Regiment of 300 Men under Colonel Garoſſolo. A Battallion of Troops of the Milaneze commanded by the Count de Colmenar, and conſiſting of 150 Men. A Neapolitan Regiment of Garraffa, 350 Men. A Neapolitan Regiment of Caraccioli, of 200 Men. A Neapolitan Regiment of Aquino, of 300 Men. A Neapolitan Regiment of Don Nicolao Cavalichi, of 400 Men. And another of the ſame Nation, of Don Placido de Zuna, which came from Naples with the Duke of Popoli, and conſiſted of 500 Men.

Horſe.

Two hundred and fifty of the Regiment of Cuiraſſiers of Don Franciſco de Caetano, the reſt of that Regiment conſiſting of 6 Troops being in Garriſon at Terragona. The Viceroy's 3 Troops of Guards, made up of Carabineers, Fuſileers, and Horſe of Catalonia, forming a Regiment, of which the Viceroy's Son is Colonel, conſiſting in all of 250 Horſe and 300 Dragoons.

The whole number of Foot without the Officers amounts to 3100 Men, and that of the Horſe without the Officers to 800 Men; in all 3900 Men.

In the Prints that came by the laſt Mails, there are ſeveral Accounts of the Surrender of Barcelona from ſeveral Places. Thoſe Accounts pretty much differ in Date, but do not differ much in the main Circumſtances, and in general agree that the Viceroy Don Franciſco de Velaſco and the Marquis d'Aytona are Priſoners, and that the Garriſon have taken Service under King Charles III.

From the Paris Letter, dated Nov. 2.

Paris, Nov. 2. We have receiv'd Advice from Lisbon, that the King of Portugal is dangerouſly ill, and that the 15th of laſt Month he receiv'd the laſt Sacraments.

From the Paris Gazette, dated October 31.

From the Camp at Gombeto, October 16. The Duke of Vendome judging Prince Eugene had a Deſign to paſs the Serio to advance into the Cremoneze and gain the lower Oglio and the Po, and apprehending he might poſſeſs himſelf of the Defile that is beyond Pizzighitone, which would have oblig'd the King's Army to fetch a great Compaſs to follow him; reſolv'd to prevent him. He left in his Camp at Tornio, the Sieur de Courtade Colonel of Horſe, with 400 Horſe, the ordinary Guard, and a Drum of each Battallion to beat the Reveille and the Taptoe, to deceive the Enemy. The beginning of the Night between the 13th and 14th he decamp'd with the Army in 2 Columns, one of Foot, the other of Horſe, and march'd towards Lody; whence the Foot advanc'd foremoſt, paſs'd the Adda, went to Caſtelleone, where Refreſhments were diſtributed among them, repaſs'd the Adda at Pizzighitone, and arriv'd the Evening of the 14th at the Defile beyond it. The Horſe having likewiſe croſs'd the Adda, paſs'd by Caſal-Puſtorlengo, and arriv'd the ſame Day near Pizzighitone. The 15th the Horſe having all repaſs'd the Adda at Noon, and rejoyn'd the Foot, the Duke of Vendome caus'd the Army to march, and encamp'd with the Right at a Caſſine within a Mile of Caſtel-leone and the Left at Gombeto where is the Head-Quarter; having before him the Serio, on the other other ſide of which the Enemy were encamp'd. They had laid a Bridge over that River, fortify'd the Head of it, and intrench'd all the Houſes on this ſide. Thoſe Intrenchments were guarded by the Regiment of Guttenſtein and 1000 detach'd Men. 2000 Horſe that march'd before the Army, commanded by the Sieur de Vaucocour Captain of the Regiment of Cappy, defeated a Party of the Enemy who came to attack him in the Village of Cornaleto, after killing 8 of them, with an Officer, and taking 10 Troopers and as many Horſes. The 16th the Duke of Vendome reſolv'd to cauſe the Intrenchments of the Bridge to be attack'd by the Count de Chemeraut and Count Albergotti. To the firſt he gave the Command of Detachments out of the Brigades de la Marine, Leuville, Grancey, Anjou, and le Sarre, and 6 Pieces of Cannon; ordering the Sieur de Carole to attack on the Right: And to the ſecond he gave the Command of Detachments out of the Brigades of Auvergne, Bretagne, Vendome, la Fere, and Burgundy, and 4 Pieces of Cannon; with Orders to the Marquis de Broglio to attack on the Left. At Noon the Troops march'd, the Grenadiers at their Head, and after ſome Diſcharges of Artillery, they attack'd the Intrenchments with ſo great Valour, that after a Fight of 2 Hours they carry'd them. The Duke of Vendome was preſent in all the Action, tho' the Enemy, whoſe Foot ſtood drawn up on the other ſide of the River, which in that Place is but about 4 Fathom broad, made an extraordinary Fire. Then he order'd the Count de Chemeraut to ſet Men to work to make an Intrenchment at the Head of the Bridge. Of the King's Troops but 14 or 15 Men were kill'd, among them a Captain and a Lieutenant, and 30 or 35 wounded. Of the Enemy 300 were kill'd and 100 made Priſoners, beſides the wounded whoſe number we know not. The Counts de Chemeraut and Albergotti, my Lord Galmoy, the Chevalier de Luxembourg, the Marquis de Broglio, Prince Pio, the Chevalier Spinola, and the Count de Muret, diſtinguiſh'd themſelves eminently, and all the Troops gave Proofs of extraordinary Courage.

From the Leyden & Amſt. Gazettes, Nov. 5. & 6.

From the Camp of the Imperialiſts at Fontanella, Oct. 22. The 16th Prince Eugene caus'd 2 Battallions of the Regiment of Guttenſtein to paſs the Serio over the Bridge we had laid near Mondodena; but they were oblig'd to repaſs that River, on the approach of a ſtrong Party of the Enemy's Army who came to charge them. However they made a ſtand at the Head of the Bridge, and being re-enforc'd by ſeveral hundred Grenadiers that Prince Eugene ſent to them with ſome Pieces of Cannon, they maintain'd a Diſpute with the Enemy from Noon till Night, with ſo great Vigour, that the Enemy had a great many Men kill'd and 150 wounded, and we 140 kill'd or wounded. The 17th we decamp'd from Mondodena and march'd to Pianengo near Crema. The Enemy did the like on the other Side of the Serio, and we Cannonado'd one another again. The 18th and 19th we continu'd at Pianengo. The 20th we march'd in 3 Columns towards Montontiano, to endeavour there to paſs the Serio: The Enemy's Army march'd that way likewiſe: However our Horſe began to paſs that River 2 Hours before Night, and were follow'd by the Foot wading thro' the Water up to the Waſte; for we could not lay Bridges there: We did not loſe one Man in this Paſſage; the Enemy, tho' not far from us, knew nothing of it: The 22d the Army continu'd its March towards Pontanella, and incamp'd there. We have Intelligence the Enemy are march'd towards Soncino, in which we have a Garriſon, but Order is ſent to the Governour to quit it on their Approach.
